

Artist Policy

Tohono Chul Park ("the Park") welcomes artists who wish to sketch, paint, or draw on Park grounds. Artists must register at Admissions and pay the normal admissions fee for use of Park grounds.

Art classes and artists who are working with clients or groups must make advanced arrangements with the Director of Public Programs and Visitor Services and pay admission when utilizing Park grounds. A 10% discount off regular admission prices is available for classes with 10 or more participants, payable with one payment instrument (check or credit card).

Times are limited to the Park's operating hours (8:00am to 5:00pm, daily) and location is dependant on scheduled activities. Park staff and volunteers will monitor artists on the grounds. Booking the desired time slot with the Director of Public Programs and Visitor Services in advance is important to avoid conflicting schedules and the inconvenience of being asked to return at a later date.

Artists are fully responsible for their behavior and for that of their clients, students and guests while on Park grounds. No nudity is allowed. No inappropriate behavior as deemed by Park managers is allowed. Tohono Chul Park will not be responsible for the loss of any property or any other liability sustained by guests while on the premises.

Reproduction of material which is subject to copyright restrictions is prohibited.

Artists agree to:

- ❖ stay on designated trails
- ❖ not block designated trails or garden paths
- ❖ not damage, injure or remove any botanical specimens, wildlife or any item designated as Park property
- ❖ leave the area in the same condition in which they found it (i.e. no trash, litter or spills of any kind, this includes wiping watercolor brushes on trees or shrubs when cleaning them)
Please help keep the Park clean for the next artist by cleaning up after yourself.
- ❖ be courteous to other Park visitors that may come upon your activity
- ❖ limit the use of electrical equipment, easels, umbrellas, etc. so as to provide easy access for other Park visitors without possibility of injury

Tohono Chul Park reserves the right to refuse permission to any artist. This policy may be changed by Tohono Chul Park at its discretion.
